Summer Session Modality Updates

Summer Session is waiting for an official confirmation on whether remote modality without an "R" online designation is approved for Summer Session 2024. Please review the letter that went out regarding modality updates for 2024.

New Request for Course Notes about Modality from Departments

Remote only:

If the faculty only wants to offer this course if remote modality is approved.

In-person only:

If the faculty only wants to teach in-person

Remote or in-person:

If the faculty is willing to teach a remote course, but will teach in-person if remote modality is not approved

Summer Graduate Teaching Scholars (SGTS)

SGTS Call for Student Registration (2024): The program has recently been restructured. This year we are moving to a registration process vs. a nomination process. The program components, registration criteria, and funding opportunities are described in detail below. Advanced graduate students are invited to register for this professional development program.

The SGTS registration link will remain open until Tuesday, November 28, 2023 or until the enrollment limit is reached (whichever is first).

Please note, the SGTS program does not guarantee a summer teaching appointment. Students must submit this course confirmation document for their program registration to be complete.

For more information, please review the official call letter and the SGST website.
